ORPHEUM THEATRE'S FEATURE FILM

The Orpheum Theatre announces a three-reel feature film entitled "The Fight at Grissley Gulley" for next Monday. A synopsis is as follows: Wentworth, a trader, leaves his family for an Indian camp, where he trades with the Redskins, and is in the midst of the trading when startled by the didoes cut up by the medicine man, when he learns that the chief's daughter is ill. Realizing that the medicine man can do the girl no good, Wentworth seeks to relieve her by giving medicine which incurs the wrath of the medicine man, who vows vengeance upon the tribe unless the white man is gotten rid of. Wentworth is placed in captivity but is released by the chief's daughter and they flee together, but are separated in the desert, the girl reaching the post and bringing the white man's wife and child to safety. Wentworth finally reaches the fort where he informs the officers of the impending attack of the Indians and a detachment is sent out, which wipes out the tribe. The chief's daughter is then made servant to Wentworth and his family.

THREE STRAIGHTS FROM BONHAM

Durant took three straight games from Bonham on the local grounds this week, sending Bonham home with lots of disgust and putting extra life in the local fans and the team as well. The Monday game was a slow one but easy money for Durant, who won it five to two. The second game was a dandy, being won by Durant by the score of five to one, Bonham's only score being a home run by Dorsey.

The Wednesday game was about the best this year on the local grounds. It was a pitcher's battle till the eighth, when Durant managed to push Jerry Naylor around the square for one score, but Bonham comes back in the ninth with two outs and by virtue of a walk, a base on balls, and a hit ties the score. In the tenth inning Durant made another score tying it up two and two. Bonham failed to score in the eleventh. In the eleventh Durant came up to win. Speer got to first on a single and was sacrificed to second by Johns, but Speer was caught out at second while off his base. Dally came up with a long three-bagger when there were two outs. Robinson walked, and Woodward came to bat and put the sphere over the field fence, breaking up the game. There was but one error in the game. Adams and Chapman pitched for Durant, and Corlino for Bonham.

The fire raged for more than two hours before the flames were able to stop the flames. Several narrow escapes are reported from burning buildings, and one woman was injured when a line of fire broke through her.

The blaze was discovered in the residence of J. W. Harvey, when Mrs. Harvey was awakened by smoke. The entire rear of the building was in flames and the occupants escaped in their night clothes.
